TO PURIFY SALOONS. Stand Taken by the United States

Brewers' Association. The United States Brewers' Association, which has just closed its annual convention at Indianapolis, has, it is stated, reiterated its determination to put the brewing industry upon a high plane and make the products of the industry more of a national drink than at present. The convention, by the resolutions, "congratulates the many brewing associations in states and cities that have taken the lead in eradicating low and vile resorts and in refusing to supply beer to saloons that were not approved by the public sentiment of their respective communities." It was added "that all our members continue in this wise policy, so that the American public may be the more quickly taught that American beer is a promoter of genu-ine temperance, a beverage for the home and fireside."

The determination was reached to "urge every brewer to so work that the time may speedily arrive when a fair public will fully understand and appreciate the true value of our product, both as a food and as a beverage, and we recommend that each brewer frequently call attention to the fact that there is so little alcohol in beer as not to produce drunkenness, when drank un-mixed with ardent stimulants."

The assertion was made that "the immense increase in the consumption of American beer has done more to establish sobriety than all the prohibitory laws in existence and will, we believe, be the means existence and will, we believe, be the means of a true solution of the drink problem and the establishment of ideal temperance, besides showing the confidence the American public has in the purity and value of the national drink."

During the convention it was brought out that the Texas browners have for two years.

that the Texas brewers have for two years that the Texas brewers have for two years spent $10,000 each month in closing vile saloons and low dives. The association has the best legal talent, a corps of trained detectives and secures its own evidence against saloonkeepers who do not run orderly places. It is stated that the detectives of the Texas brewers close three times as many saloons as the police offi-cials of the various cities.

The intention of the brewers of the country is, it is announced, to make beer a drink that can be taken in a soda water fountain or anywhere else without subjecting any

A Balloon Incline Railroad. Consul William Bardel writes from Bamberg that Engineer Balderauer of Salzburg has invented a balloon railroad, experiments with which are now being made in the mountains in the neighborhood of that It consists of a stationary balloon which s fastened to a slide running along a single steel rail. The rail is fastened to the side of a steep mountain, which ordinary railroads could not climb, except through deep cuts and tunnels. The balloon is to float about thirty-five feet over the ground, and a heavy steel cable connects it with the rail. The conductor can, at will, make the rail. The conductor can, at will, make the balloon slide up and down the side of the mountain. For going up the motive power is furnjshed by hydrogen gas, while the descent is caused by pressure of water, which is poured into a large tank at the upper end of the road, and which serves as ballast. Suspended from the balloon is a circular car with room for ten passengers. The cable goes from the bottom of the balloon through the center of the car to a regulator of speed, which is controlled by the conductor. The inventor of this railroad claims that his patent will force all incline cable roads out of existence.

Rozane art vase pottery

Art Vase pottery is noted for its low tones, usually yellow, red and brown in color, with floral decorations, characterized by a luxuriant painting in warm colors under a brilliant glaze. From a comparatively light and golden color scheme the arrangement varies to rich deep red, brown and green combinations in mellow tones. Ware of this type is richer and more brilliant than any other. Adherence to high aims, without regard to cost of production, has enabled our potteries to attain high rank among the world's ceramics and to win recognition from the best judges of pottery as being a distinct artistic creation, and which have been awarded the highest honors at the World's great expositions. No real work of art is valued according to its size but by its quality. Thus, a vase which is small in size may be so rare in design, decoration, size and quality, due to eccentricities of the fire, that it will frequently have a greater artistic value than a piece many times larger. And again, two vases of the same size may vary widely in price, according to the artist who paints the design upon the piece, or the varying conditions which effected the cost of the production.

LOCAL LEAGUE TO CELEBRATE THIRTEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

Meeting to Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon at Calvary Baptist Sunday

The thirteenth anniversary of the organiaction of the Anti-Saloon League of the will always be one of the chief, if not the greatest, of the accomplishments of the District League, which then and there brought about the organization of the National League. By its organization in June, 1893, three months before a state organization was effected in Ohio, it won for the District of Columbia the distinction of leading in the present movement. This is a matter of history which is emphasized at the anniversary celebrations of the league. Death of Active Worker.

One of the losses the league sustained the past year that will be mentioned at the meeting tomorrow, it is said, was the death last July of the man of whom Bishop Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal Church "In June, 1893, the time seemed ripe for a new movement in the interest of tem-perance, and to Mr. A. N. Canfield, more perance, and to Mr. A. N. Canfield, more than to any other single individual, must be given credit for the organization of the District League, three months before the movement took shape in Ohio."

Mr. Canfield's story of the organization of the District of Columbia League is published in connection with the tenth and-versary, as follows:

better conditions, saw the futility of any A. S. L. of D. C., paster Keller Memorial attempt by individuals or by individual so-cieties to cope with the united, organized and profitable liquor traffic, ad saw the necessity for united action in op, osition. Plans Too Narrow.

"Recognizing this necessity, many attempts had been made to unite the temperance forces before the Anti-Saloon League was organized, but these had all failed because the attempts were made to organize with too many restrictions. The plans "To succeed in so great an undertaking, the organization must be broad enough and liberal enough to admit to affiliation, on equal terms, all who oppose the liquor traffic and the drink habit, and who favor zation of the Anti-Saloon League of the District of Columbia and the birth of the present A. S. L. movement is to be celebrated tomorrow, Sunday, at Calvary Baptist Sunday school house, beginning at 3:30 p.m.

The place, it is said, could not be more significant, since Calvary Baptist Sunday school house was in 1895 the scene of what school house was in 1895 the scene of what always be one of the chief, if not the chief if not "At its organization the league was con posed of representatives from about twenty organizations—churches and church societies of various denominations, lodges of Good Templars, unions of the W. C. T. U., divisions of Sons of Temperance, tents of Rechabites and Father Mathew Total Abstinence societies.
